Dr. Alcaide is an Associate Professor of Clinical Medicine in the Division of Infectious Diseases. Dr. Alcaide has clinical expertise in HIV and sexually transmitted infections. Her research focuses on HIV and women in the US and sub-Saharan Africa, and on female specific factors that increase the risk of HIV acquisition and transmission. She participates in NIH and USAID funded HIV studies involving HIV and STD prevention, and the Women's Interagency HIV Study (WIHS), the largest cohort of HIV infected women in the US.
